Scrapie Identification Information for Producers

(14 April 2014)—The interstate identification rule is a federal requirement and official identification cannot be legally removed. Scrapie Program Flock tags include the flock ID and individual production number. The flock ID number is the number that must appear on producers' tags and/or tattoos and records/paperwork (including certificates of veterinary inspection). BOAH will provide/approve the Flock ID number for each site. In most cases, this number includes the state postal code and county number. All of these tags will have the USDA shield present.

- Under Indiana guidelines, recognized identification methods are the same for sheep and goats. Accepted methods include: Scrapie Program Flock tags, tattoos and microchips (where recognized by a registry).
- Tattoos must be applied legible to the ear, tail or flank in their entirety.
- Registry tattoos may be used as a Flock ID only with approval of BOAH and the animal must be moved with the registration papers. Whenever possible, BOAH will incorporate the registry number into the Flock ID.
- "In-and-out" or seasonal flocks, in which no birthing takes place, are not required to have a flock identification number. The owners may choose to obtain federal tags or have their sheep or goats identified by a veterinarian or extension educator for exhibit/sale. (This exception includes 4-Hers who only have animals for 4-H, then sell them after the season. These individuals' lambs or goats should have a tag or tattoo upon purchase.)
- Indiana law requires wethers have identification for exhibition. However, they do not have to have the official federal identification unless 18 months of age or older. In-tact males and females must have official federal identification regardless of age.
- Wethers intended to be used for exhibition or sale must be identified by any type of tag or tattoo. Federal identification tag or tattoo (approved) is required for wethers older than 18 months of age.
